1. What is orientation?
   Orientation is a program of introduction for incoming students. It is held prior to the beginning of each term and is required for all students. During orientation you will complete necessary placement testing, attend an academic planning and advising session, schedule classes and learn about campus resources.

2. Can I double major?
   Yes. With careful planning, you can successfully double major. Be sure to speak to your advisor early in the process.

3. Can I change my major?
   Yes. It is not uncommon for students to change their majors, particularly during their freshman and sophomore years.

4. How will I pay for everything?
   A variety of need- and merit-based financial aid options, as well as student loans, are available. You might also consider a part-time job or the federal work-study program. Visit go.osu.edu/ASCfunding for additional information.

5. What if I need a part-time job?
   If you're looking for a job on campus, visit sfa.osu.edu/jobs.

6. How do I know if I’m eligible for Federal Work-Study jobs?
   Federal Work-Study is a form of federal financial aid. Eligibility is determined when you file the FAFSA each year. Once awarded, you must accept Federal Work-Study from the Award Summary in your Student Center.

7. How many courses should I take each semester?
   It depends on the difficulty of the courses. You’ll need to take at least 12 hours to be considered a full-time student. In order to take more than 18 credit hours, you must petition the university and pay an additional fee. Keep in mind that 15 credit hours per semester will keep you on track to graduate in four years.

8. What should I do if I need help with a class?
   A variety of tutoring options and academic support services are available on campus, including the Younkin Success Center, the Dennis Learning Center, the Math & Statistics Learning Center and the Center for the Study and Teaching of Writing.

9. Is it okay to go to my professors with questions?
   Yes. Your instructors will have open office hours and students are encouraged to visit with questions and receive individual feedback.

10. Is there support available for first-generation students?
    Yes. The First Generation Student Organization is a resource available to you. Connecting with this community can be helpful, especially when discussing the unique experiences and challenges that many first-generation students face.
