Faculty members are in a unique position to assist students who report sexual misconduct. Outlined below is information to guide you in responding to and supporting a student who confides in you.

What should I do?

1 STEP ONE: LISTEN
   - Ensure the student is safe. Survivors of sexual assault, stalking, domestic or dating violence are strongly encouraged to report the crime to law enforcement.
   - Listen openly. Encourage the student to seek support services.
   - Start by believing the student. Refrain from judgmental questions. Don’t allow myths to affect how you perceive the survivor.

What should I say?

2 STEP TWO: SUPPORT
   "I appreciate your coming to me for support. I want to make you aware of my role’s limitations. As a faculty member, I have an obligation to report any incident of sexual assault to the Title IX Coordinator or a Title IX Deputy Coordinator. I also want to make you aware of resources on campus where you can discuss your situation confidentially and seek support if needed. I can’t keep this confidential, yet we can keep it private."

Who should I contact?

3 STEP THREE: REPORT
   - Report incident to the Title IX Coordinator or Deputy Coordinator in Student Conduct or Human Resources via phone, email or in person.
   - Share all the relevant details, including the name of the student, date, time or location of incident, and the names of anyone identified by the student as an alleged perpetrator or witness.
   - Contact information is available on the back of this page.

Additional Tips

What to say to a victim/survivor:
- I’m sorry this happened to you.
- It wasn’t your fault.
- You survived; obviously, you did the right things.
- Thank you for telling me.
- I’m always here if you want to talk.
- Can I do anything for you?

What NEVER to say to a victim/survivor:
- It was your fault.
- You could have avoided it had you __________.
- It’s been so long! Get over it!
- You wanted it / You were asking for it.
- It’s not that big of deal; it happens to lots of people.
- I don’t believe you.

Student Advocacy Center, Sexual Civility and Empowerment Program (SCE)
These services are part of the Office of Student Life’s Student Advocacy Center and advocates work with students dealing with sexual violence, dating violence, domestic violence and stalking. SCE provides education/prevention programs, as well as support and advocacy. Contact a SCE advocate for support in understanding your medical and legal options, and for support throughout criminal or OSU conduct proceedings. Financial assistance is available for students who have experienced sexual violence, dating violence, domestic violence or stalking through the Sexual Violence Assistance Fund. Advocates can also provide assistance with academic, housing, transportation and other related issues.
