ARTS DISTRICT

Ground has been broken, and construction is officially underway for the new Arts District. As part of Ohio State's long-term vision to open the university's front door to the heart of the Oval, this project will bring new and renovated facilities — including state-of-the-art performance spaces, modern recital halls, new rehearsal rooms and high-tech classrooms — for the School of Music, Department of Theatre and moving-image production major.

Bold and innovative, the Arts District seeks to spark imagination and inspiration across creative disciplines. With the arts together in a central location, the possibilities for collaboration will be endless.
